

Nominations are Invited for the Wesley Cocker Award

Deadline for Submissions: Tuesday 31 July 2018

The Wesley Cocker Award, given by SCI's All Ireland Group, aims to recognise an early career scientist (PhD student or earlier) in Ireland who has made a significant contribution in some aspect of chemistry relevant to Irish industry. Applicants should be student members of SCI at the time of application, or confirm that they have applied for SCI membership when submitting their application.

Applications will be assessed by the quality of a publication, poster or patent from 2017, on which the applicant's name appears, and where their supervisor asserts that they have made the major contribution.

Applications should be submitted by e-mail to our Awards team at awards@soci.org enclosing the following:

- ▶ An electronic copy of the applicant's paper/poster/patent
- ▶ A recommendation from the candidate's supervisor outlining the contribution made to the work
- ▶ The applicant's SCI membership number, or confirmation that SCI membership has been applied for*

The recipient will receive a €500 cash prize.

* Only SCI student (or prospective student) members are eligible to apply. Applications will not be considered from e-members
